SCHEDULED SERVICE CLAIMS

The following was sent in an email to all Dealers Service e-mails on 6th July 2004:

> The following information refers to Scheduled Service warranty claims and should not be confused with any Prepaid Service programs.
>
> In an effort to remove some of the confusion surrounding the eligibility of vehicles for Scheduled Service, the applicable warranty indexes have been modified to reflect a maximum odometer reading of 65000 Km for Scheduled Service.
>
> Under the Scheduled Service program owners are entitled to free scheduled services covering the period up to the 60,000km service. In essence this means that owners are provided free of charge 4 scheduled services (15,000km 30,000km 45,000km and 60,000km). These services can be claimed at either time or mileage in accordance with the MMAL's Service and Warranty Book.
>
> Vehicle owners can claim these services at any time or any mileage, however claims which do not meet warranty index conditions will require a prior work authority, better known as a service claim authority (SCA).
>
> The important thing is that MMAL will only pay for the 4 Scheduled Services detailed above regardless of when they are claimed or the distance travelled.
>
> NOTE:
> In the case of vehicles fitted with a diesel engine that require supplementary services, it has been MMAL practice to reimburse Dealers for these supplementary services when claimed through the warranty system. It should be noted that these supplementary services are NOT part of the Scheduled Service program. As a measure of goodwill, MMAL will continue to honour claims for these supplementary services when claimed.

It seems that there is still some confusion about what is a “Scheduled Service” and what is a “Supplementary Service”.

“Scheduled Service” is used to describe a service that is called a “Regular Service” in the coupon section of the Service and Warranty Book. “Supplementary Service” is used to describe a service called a “Regular Oil Change”.

WARRANTY INFORMATION BULLETIN

WIB 2004-01 14/01/2004

This will be the last Warranty Information Bulletin written by me. After 41 years service with Chrysler Australia and MMAL, I have decided to retire. I would like to take this opportunity to say goodbye and thankyou to all those that I have had dealings with.

Ian Matthews will take over control of the Warranty Department in a new position as Warranty Manager.

Eric Haines, with over 26 years service will also be retiring at the end of July. I would like to take this opportunity to thank Eric for his many years of service and dedication to the job. Eric will be sorely missed in the Warranty Claims Administration section.
