Subject: Warranty Portal validation changes

Dear Ladies and Gentlemen,

Over the weekend of 3-4 October, some significant program changes have been implemented to the Warranty Portal.

These changes will enable the application of validation rules on Service Claim Authorisations (SCA), Goodwill Requests (GWR), and to a lesser degree Technical Service Requests (TSR) and Dealer Quality Reports (DQR).

These validation rules will be progressively applied to the relevant document types. The validation process will follow the same principles as is applied during the claim submission process.

You will notice that a "Claim Errors" icon is now displayed on these document types and any errors encountered during their processing will be listed.
Error management/correction should be addressed in the same manner as for a standard claim.

The addition of these validations will

- help improve the SCA/GWR adjudication process
- help ensure that subsequent claim submissions raised via "Copy to Claim" function are compliant with standard warranty validations
- reduce processing delays resulting from the identification of additional requirements during subsequent claim creation.
- Improve information entered on TSR/DQR

This was a complex change and unfortunately, we have identified an error in production that is preventing the portal screens from refreshing after each transaction. This is an intermittent issue and is not occurring on all updates. However, if you notice that no change has occurred to your screen after you initiated a change or button action please 'refresh' your screen by reloading the page.

We understand this is inconvenient and apologise for any additional work required but please be assured this issue is being addressed as a high priority and rectification work is currently underway. MMAL Warranty Admin will advise the Dealer Network once the issue has been resolved.
