Subject: Claim Status Field – Invalid Value

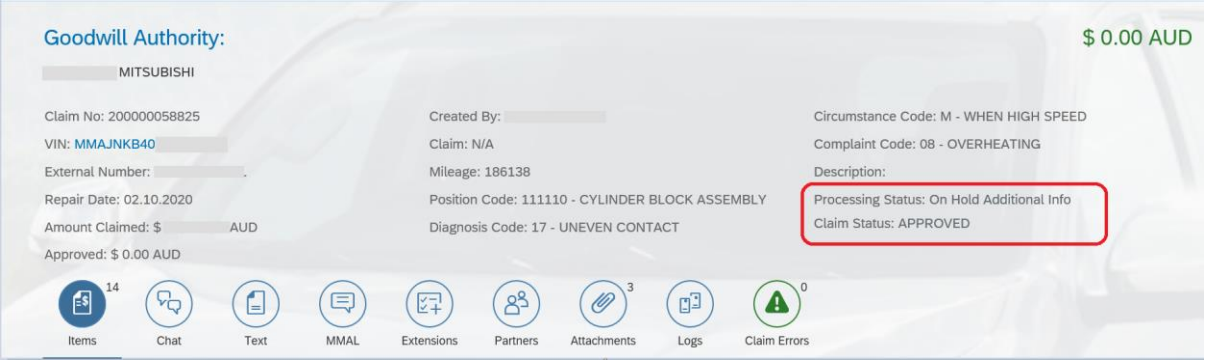

Dear Ladies and Gentlemen,

Further to the changes to enable the application of validation rules on Service Claim Authorisations (SCA), Goodwill Requests (GWR), Technical Service Requests (TSR) and Dealer Quality Reports (DQR), we have identified an issue with the Claim Status field.

While the Claim Status field is not applicable for these document types, it is being incorrectly populated and may lead to confusion regarding actions required.

Any value contained in the Claim Status field for these documents must be ignored.

The Processing Status field will display the current status and/or action required.

In the above example, the "Processing Status" is showing the GWR as "On Hold Additional Info". The GWR has been returned to the dealer requesting more information, before MMAL can make a decision.

While the Claim Status field contains a value of "Approved" this is NOT in any way approval to proceed with a repair.

In this instance, the GWR must be resubmitted to MMAL for adjudication and the Processing Status must be "Authorisation Approved" before proceeding with a repair.

A future change will see "Claim Status" field reset to blank for these document types.
